SNOW MUCH TO DO WITH THE WEATHER !

With the recent snowfall, students got creative with what mother nature provided. These children at Brentwood Park Elementary built shapes, made snowballs, and even sculpted a snow person to look like their teacher – complete with coffee and a caring heart. A class at Brantford Elementary was given the challenge of building the biggest snowperson they could in 10 minutes. At Kitchener Elementary, these children practiced their collaboration skills while working together on a snow structure. The work of facilities crews, who were out before dawn clearing the snow for days, was deeply appreciated, as seen here at Moscrop Secondary. During the cold snap, Leadership students at Alpha Secondary helped out by making over 100 bagged lunches for shelters.

GOODBYE AND HELLO BURNABY NORTH SECONDARY !

The holiday season was bittersweet for students and staff, as they held honoured traditions one last time in the old Burnaby North Secondary buildings. The move from the old school took place over Winter Break. To help orient people in their new building, North's student government prepared a virtual tour. Let's take a look at part of it. [VIDEO]
The new school, built with energy efficiency in mind, also includes spaces for child care and adult education.

FRENCH STUDENTS SHINE BRIGHT ON PROVINCIAL STAGE !

Secondary students from two Burnaby schools took top honours in a provincial French-speaking contest called Dites-le en vidéo, or in English: Say It on Video. Students were invited to submit recordings about topics ranging from their favourite hobby to their perspective on current events. Six Grade 9 students in Moscrop

STUDENT VOICE ELEVATED AT DISTRICT-LED BLACK EXCELLENCE DAY EVENT

Students were at the centre of an event celebrating Black Excellence with tens of thousands of people from across BC. Let's take a glimpse at just some of the conversation. [VIDEO] Co-planned with the Burnaby School District and the Ninandotoo Society, people from 21 school districts and as far away as Alberta joined online. Minister of Education and Child Care Rachna Singh attended in person with students and special guests at Byrne Creek Community School. The event included presenters and performers – all in celebration of Black achievements, stories, art, people, joy, love, and history.

STUDENT PLANNING FOR THE NEXT SCHOOL YEAR!

Students are in the early stages of planning for the 2024-25 school year. Among the options at both the elementary and secondary level are district-wide Programs of Choice. This includes everything from Advanced Placement, such as this AP Biology course, to sports academies and exposure to careers, such as Early Childhood Education. To help youth and their families make informed decisions, Student Planning Nights take place at each high school sharing student options and requirements. This one at Burnaby Mountain Secondary drew nearly 550 people. An information session for those interested in the District's Mandarin Language Arts program was held this month with approximately 50 people at Forest Grove Elementary. Grade 7 students also get invited to a session to learn about course selection for their first year of high school. At this one at Cariboo Hill Secondary, students sampled the DigiPen Game Development Academy – a Program of Choice offered at the school – and electives such as band and drama. More than 700 people attended an evening about District-wide Career Education options, which range from trades to technology programs.

STUDENTS IN THE NEWS FOR THEIR SKILLS AND INITIATIVE

A Grade 6 student at Armstrong Elementary was featured by Global News for her work helping people experiencing homelessness. This is the fourth year that Keanna Lai has raised funds through projects such as a lemonade stand and yard sale. She was able to hand out $500 worth of food tokens. Our basketball teams are well represented in the Top 10 rankings.
